Cartlidge Morland Appointed to advise Kyocera Mita

Cartlidge Morland is pleased to announce that they have been appointed by Kyocera Mita UK to provide advice to the company on its UK Group Personal Pension Scheme.

Kyocera Mita is the document solutions subsidiary of the globally diversified Kyocera Corporation. Cartlidge Morland has been appointed as consultant to the pension scheme that exists for the benefit of the UK based employees, and also to the death in service and income protection schemes.

The key element of the service offered by Cartlidge Morland for Kyocera Mita is the on-going independent advice that will be available for all personnel. Every employee will have individual access to personalised and straightforward advice at a time when pension issues are facing a particularly complex future. It was Cartlidge Morland's strong emphasis on quality investment advice, a particular feature of their approach, which has led to their appointment. This will ensure that members' pension funds are regularly reviewed and that Kyocera's employees' attitudes to investment risk are fully reflected and maintained.

Alex Reeves, Managing Director – Employee Benefits at Cartlidge Morland said: "We are looking forward to building a strong relationship with Kyocera Mita to ensure they and their employees have on-going independent and pertinent advice. Our aim is to provide a high level of individual attention on a regular basis rather than on a 'one off' occasion to enable Kyocera Mita to provide pension arrangements, and other schemes to support their staff and their business."

Sandra Rogers – HR Manager, Kyocera Mita, said: “We are pleased to have appointed Cartlidge Morland as a consultant to our employee benefits arrangements and in particular our pension scheme. We feel they will support our management rationale which is to provide opportunities for the material and intellectual growth of all our employees.”
